

God's incredible no-life world

Air has no life
of its own.

Trees use lifeless
carbon dioxide
and give lifeless oxygen.

The oxygen
level is the same in the rain forest and the desert.

Water has no life of its own.

God has provide a way
for lifeless water to flow up a tree trunk, (against gravity)
to get to the top of any tree (without a pump) to do its part in life.

Water has no life, but life is impossible without it.

Gravity has no life,
but without it life as we know it would not exist.

Without gravity apples would not fall from trees and water would float off to who knows where...before we could drink it.

Leaves could not fall, rot and turn into vital nutrients.

Seeds would float off somewhere and other plant would never grow.

*I explored a wondrous world today of things where life is not.
I discovered many delightful things that thrill my soul a lot.*

*Clouds and rain and hail showed their mighty ways.
They filled my mind with wondrous thought as bright as the sun's hot rays.*

*Heat and cold and wiggles have no life to share with me.
The wonder of their mighty works help me my God to see.*

The air I breath and plants I smell the lost pump in my tree, shout with soundless voices helping me my God to see.

*Water has not life to give but carries it full and free.
The rocks have no will to do but help me my God to see.*

Things that have no life at all sing a song of wondrous praise to the God who's heart is touched as honor to Him we raise.
