

What happened to the body of Jesus?

The disciples took the body of Jesus.

Somehow a group of terrified disciples had to sneak up to the grave, roll away a large stone and remove the body of Jesus...without being seen by the Roman guard.

The Jews took the body of Jesus.

Jesus said he would die and be raised on the third day. The Jews wanted the body to stay in the grave. All they would have to do was open the grave after three days and produce the body of Jesus. It would have ended Christianity before it started.

The Romans removed the body.

Pontius Pilate just wanted the whole thing ended.

Robbers took the body of Jesus.

Robbers would have to get past the Roman guards, and there was nothing to steal.

Jesus was not really dead.

He woke up, removed the large stone and walked out of the tomb, past the Roman guards.

Jesus was Resurrected!

The Bible says it.
History Proves it!

Which explanation makes sense?
